Non-cellular life is life that exists without a cellular structure for at least part of its life cycle. Historically, most (descriptive) definitions of life postulated that a living organism must be composed of one or more cells, but this is no longer considered necessary, and modern criteria allow for forms of life based on other structural arrangements.

Introduction by Graham Davies. A "concordance", according to the Collins Cobuild English Language Dictionary (1987), is "An alphabetical list of the words in a book or a set of books which also says where each word can be found and often how it is used." I first came across the term "concordance" from one of the lecturers who taught me at university during the early 1960s.
